ASTIGMATISM.

What It Is, and How Corrected.

Astigmatism or Irregular Vision is one of the most common of all the refractive errors. It is due to the irregular curvature of the film known as the Cornea. Of course no instrument is sufficient to correct it, but in the hands of a thoroughly efficient and competent Eye Specialist the ophthalmometer reveals the exact condition of the eye in a way that nothing else can. If your eyes need attention have DR. J. T. JOHNSON to put them under this wonderful treatment. Office hours 8:30 to 12:30; 2 to 6. 302½ S. Elm St.

More Hams Stolen.

The rear limb of that disagreeable but useful animal, the hog, which in Ireland is known as "the gentleman that pays the rent" seems to be the chief attraction for thieves at this season. Some one broke into Mr. Sam Mitchell's store, on West Main street last night and carried away four nice hams and four cans of sausage. The money drawer was broken open but contained only a few stamps, which were left on the floor.

AN INEXHAUSTIBLE SUPPLY

A Mountain Full of Rich Iron Ore Being Worked.

HIDDEN WEALTH UNCOVERED.

A Telegram Man Pays a Visit To The Iron Mines at Ore Hill. A Busy Scene.

All Greensboro, indeed pretty much all North Carolina, is at this time watching with the keenest interest the progress and development of the iron industry which is just now taking encouraging shape. A few days ago the furnace at this place was put in blast and is now running out a good grade of iron from ore mined from North Carolina hills about forty miles away. Many of our people have visited the furnace and watched the hot metal as it runs liked seething rivulets of fire into beds of earth where it is formed into pig iron. It is interesting both as a curiosity and on accouut of the great commercial benefit such an enterprise is to a community.

Having seen that, it will be of interest to take a look at the mines from whence the crude material comes. With this idea in mind a Telegram man yesterday visited Ore Hill which, years ago derived its name from the veritable hill of ore which stands just south of the little village and station on the A. & Y. Railway, in Chatham county Years ago, during the war between the states a small furnace of some eight or ten tons capacity was operated at the foot of the hill, the ruins of which are still visible at the point where the ore is now dumped from the narrow gauge railroad into cars on the siding of the A. & Y. At that time Egypt (now Cumnock) was the nearest railroad point, about fifteen miles away, and the product of the furnace was hauled in wagons to that place. With the present mode of hauling the ore, a railroad up and around the hill and running directly into the beds of ore, the difficulties of the former period are shown in striking contrast, a splendid illustration of the value of railroads as a great opening and developing power.

In company with the mine superintendent, Mr. T. F. Miller we visited the arrangement for dumping the ore from the narrow-gauge railroad. Nearby runs a little creek which furnishes an ample supply of water for washing the fine ore. This is an interesting feature. In the mines all fine ore which is mixed with dirt is dumped into cars which are unloaded into the washer. Two ponderous logs with teeth-like paddles all along and around them set in such a manner that when the logs revolve the fine ore is gradually moved up a slight incline in which the logs are placed. These revolving logs or cylinders are placed in a large trough or basin and just over it is a perforated trough through which an abundant supply of water drips. As the logs turn the ore is moved toward the outer end and the water washes the dirt and mud back to the lower end whence it is carried off and empted into the creek below. From this washer the ore falls directly into the cars ready for shipment. The larger ore in solid lumps is loaded just as it is turned out from the mine. An occasional powder blast is required, but most of it at present is removed with pick and shovel.

Climbing into the cab of the narrow gauge engine we were hurried up the winding track around the hill to points near the summit where we viewed with interest the various openings made in nature's vast and rich storehouse. Small quantities of earth only have to be removed before you can stand on solid ore beds. The tracks are so arranged that instead of lifting the ore to load it, it is dumped down into the cars. Squads of men with pick and shovel were busily engaged in penetrating the hill and "going against" the rich ore beds. The more work is done the more inexhaustible seems the supply. All indications point to the fact that there is sufficient ore there to last a half dozen furnaces far beyond the natural life of any who are living at present.

The work there has put new life into the little village of Ore Hill. It has long been the cherished hope of those good people to see the mines opened up. Their hope is realized. It is an era, on which that community, as well as Greensboro, is to be congratulated. Many Greensboro people will find it a place of interest to visit.

We also visited Mt. Vernon Springs, the famous health and pleasure resort, which is only a half to three-quarters of a mile distant from the mines. The hotel at the springs will be open for the reception of guests in a few days and those who have been fortunate enough to sojourn there in the past will know we speak the truth when we say that those seeking rest, recreation and health will find Mt. Vernon Springs an ideal resort. Surrounded by great natural beauty, large oak groves, with cool springs flowing with veritable water of life, and such a host as John M. Foust to look after the comfort of guests, truly the man or woman who could not be satisfied there would not be happy in any earthly paradise. The words "rest" and "health" seem to echo through the boughs of the massive trees wafted on sweet-scented zephyrs fresh from clover blossoms and waving fields of grain.

When you go down to see the mines don't forget to call on Foust at the Mt. Vernon Hotel.

MEMORIAL DAY TOMORROW.

Preparations About Completed for the Grand Celebration.

What will probably be one of the most beautiful processions ever seen in Greensboro will start from the court house at 4 30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and proceed down West Market street to Edgworth, thence north to the cemetery where the crowd will form around the confederate graves and render appropriate exercises. The line-up of the procession will be as follows:

1 Young lady on horseback.
2 Speaker's carriage,
3 President's (D. of C.) carriage.
4 Old Veterans.
5 Officers' (D. of C.) carriage.
6 Young ladies' carriages.
7 Orchestra wagon.
8 School children.
9 Citizens and Daughters of the Confederacy.

Every old veteran in the city is invited to take part in the celebration and they will be especially provided for. The Daughters of the Confederacy who took the first steps toward the celebration will have a wagon at the court house to carry flowers to the cemetery. The procession will be directed by twenty marshals, of whom Wm. D. McAdoo will be chief and George Vanstory assistant chief.

As stated in yesterday's paper, Hon. Edward W. Pou of Smithfield, will deliver the memorial address and a gem may be expected. The ladies have done all in their power to make it a general celebration, and from all appearances, their efforts will be crowned with success.

THE GLORIOUS REUNION.

Veterans of the Civil War Flocking to Charleston.

A large number of the "Heroes of the Lost Cause" passed through Greensboro last evening and this morning en route to Charleston, S. C., to meet in annual reunion. A special car filled with the veterans was attached to the southbound fast mail last evening, while a number travelled as regular passengers. On the early train from the east this morning were two extra cars containing the R. F. Webb camp Number 818, Col J. S. Carr commander, from Durham county. Col. Carr's munificent offer to pay half the fare of any vet in his county and those surrounding, was gratefully accepted and those from that section numbered an hundred. Col. Carr went to Charlotte last night and met his company there this morning. When the Durham veterans reached here, they were met by a delegation from the Guilford Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, who served coffee and sandwiches. This fitting recognition and kindness by the daughters of comrades made the hearts of the old heroes glad and they expressed their great appreciation. As the train bearing the boys in grey pulled out from the station, several bystanders lifted their hats and were recognized by the veterans, waving their hands from the car windows. On the cars containing Col. Carr's command were the words: "First at Bethel, Furthest at Gettysburg, Last at Appomatox."

WAS IT MONARCHICAL ?

Mr. Edward Atkinson, of Boston, Mass., is an anti-imperialist of note. He has inaugurated a crusade against the European policy that America has entered upon, and has sent the American soldiers in the Philipines. a lot of literature seeking to inculcate in their minds a feeling antagonistic to our plan of murdering an innocent people and taking from them their country, the possesion of which we have no right. He presents to the men some very pointed questions and convincing argument of which the following is said to be the most "treasonable:"

"How much increase of taxation are you willing to bear and how many of your neighbors' sons are you ready to sacrifice by fever, malaria and general disease in order to extend the sovereignty of the United States over the West Indies and Philippine Islands?"

Suddenly the posoffice department, under the direction of the administration, swoops down upon Mr. Atkinson's literature and its transmission through the mails is estopped, upon the plea that it is calcu'ated to incite treason and insurrection, etc., among the troops.

This is the case. And the American people, who scarcely noticed the incident at first, are beging to condemn the administration very severely for its act. It is asked very pungently by the Richmond Times whether "a soldier of the United States army is less a citizen of the United States because he is a soldier in its military service, and may not one citizen of the United States who differs with a particular administration of the government upon a question of policy that it has adopted, argue with another citizen of the United States that the particular policy adopted will be most injurious to the general welfare of the country?"

It does seem that the government of the United States has encroached upon the rights of a citizen.

AT CHARLESTON TODAY.

Today at aristocratic Charleston began the reunion of confederate veterans which will occupy the greater part of this week.

There is something ineffably sad about these meetings. Each year the grave closes upon some of the old veterans, and never again will so many assemble together as will meet at Charleston this week. Bent forms will be there that marched proud and erect to the strains of Dixie 'neath the stars and bars, thirty-eight years ago. Finally, and it won't be long, only a handful of aged heroes will be left as a remant of that grand host which was the mightest that ever marched to battle, beside whose valor, discipline and heroic and chivalrous bravery Napoleon's warriors nor the combined legions of Caesar can be compared. Then all will pass away to live only in history and in the hearts of their loved ones, till the eternal reveille is sounded.

However much may be appreciated Mr. McKinley's kind suggestion that the confederate cemeteries should be cared for at the expense of the federal government, his admonition in North Carolina is not needed as long as we have with us the noble Daughters of the Confederacy. Tomorrow, Memorial Day, a celebration by the Guilford Chapter, under the very efficient leadership of Mrs. R. F. Dalton, will commemorate the lost but never-to-be-forgotten cause by a program of appropriate ceremonies.

Those silent mounds in Greene Hill cemetery where the dead heroes of '61-64 are sleeping will always be kept green.

Mr. Harry M. North, of Laurinburg, a ministerial candidate who will graduate from Trinity College this year, will succeed Rev. E. C. Glenn as pastor of Central M. E. church at Raleigh, Rev. Mr. Glenn retiring on account of ill health. Mr. North is a young man of vigorous and cultured intellect and of high christian character. He will begin his pastorial duties after the Trinity commencement.

LETTER FROM TROJAN.

A Pleasant Chat About our People, Churches, And Other Things.

Correspondence Telegram

Jonesboro, May 7—Greensboro is a big town. In fact it is about as large a town for the size as I have seen. It was the writer's pleasure to spend a few day there last week. And although called on to feed and lodge the Epworth League Conference, she did it without a tremor. Of course the town keeps growing, and while some of the brethren have thought the dispensary would give her a back-set, no evidence of stagnation is apparent. It will take more than one dispensary of spiritus furmenti to put an obstacle in the path of her not-to-be-interrupted progress. But what I am writing you already know, so we will pass on to speak of some of the folks whom we met there.

At the Benbow we first shook hands with the clever and polite John Hammer. The Benbow is fortunate in having him as a clerk, and the traveling public ditto in having so genial a man to look after its welfare when sojourning in the Benbow precinct. It wasn't long after registering until Red Buck hove in sight smiling a welcome. It was like running into a flood of sunlight. Well, he has the right to be full of good cheer. A good digestion and a clean conscience make him a fit companion at every hour Red Buck, however, didn't say anything to me about the negro who ate all the carp he wanted and then sold the remainder of this wonderful fish for $1.50. The carp grows to be very large. This big fish reminds me of the sweet potato in Florida. I took dinner with a Dr. Sloan and they had a single potato cut in fractions for the meal and there was a sufficiency for the family. It struck me as being of considerable size, but the Doctor remarked that it was a very small potato compared with some that grew in Florida. He spoke of hearing a lady tell the servant, at the house where he was to dine, to take the hatchet and chop off a piece of potato for dinner. That was a potato in fact. It is not my intention to endorse this statement, but the doctor said it was the truth. I am not very much of a hand or fist at potato reminiscences, but then we all don't enjoy the same advantages in this world, and some men will see bigger fish and potatoes than others.

During the conference my home was at the Planters' Hotel. It is a pleasant house and Mrs. Burks, the proprietress, is assiduous in her attention to the guests. Here I had the pleasure of meeting with Mr. Richard T. Wyche, who is a story-teller. He lives, as it were, "In Story Land." His business is to tell stories to children He says that about ninety per cent of all the lecturers, recitators, musicians and entertainers that go before the public are for grown people. If children are allowed to go they get only the crumbs that fall from the table He tells the children stories from the great writers. His style is not to give a piece of elocution nor to recite poems nor repeat in detail a story, but to grasp the central idea of a great story, make it his own, and with sympathy and enthusiasm give it to the children in language that they can understand. I am glad the teachers in Greensboro give him such high endorsement. He is certainly a pleasant and entertaining gentleman, and may he live long to help the children with his fascinating stories.

It was a rare treat to visit the West Market Street M. E. Church. The building is a credit to the membership and to the city. Rev. J. C. Rowe, a good man and an able preacher, is the pastor. The conference was held in this building, presided over by Geo. L Hackney, editor of the Epworth News, Asheville. To see them, Rev. C. W. Byrd, Frank Weaver, J. H. Weaver, T. E Wagg and others, of my old associates, of Asheville, made me feel that it was good to be there. How precious the hours spent in the company of those whom you know and love.

We were delighted also to meet with the Telegram's editor and local reporter and Mr. L. W. Crawford, Jr., of the Advocate. They tell me that all of these young men are doing well with their respective papers. One is secular, the other church, but both are religious. Religion doesn't hurt any thing, not even a church paper, just so it is religion. And certainly it doesn't hurt a secular journal. The world, sinful as it may be, will lift its hat to religion, invariably; but the worldly man can see through the professor only without glasses.

Before leaving Greensboro it was my pleasure to enjoy the hospitality of my good friend Dr. E. L. Stamey. He is one of our preachers who gave up the ministry on account of a throat trouble. Subsequently went into the practice of medicine, and already stands high in his profession. There is nothing like success, and any man, if he be sensible, may make the goal if he sticks to his bush. The boy who goes blackberry hunting, spends only a few minutes in picking berries, and the biggest part of his time in standing on his head, playing leap-frog, or turning summersaults, will go home in the evening with not enough berries for a pie, while he who stuck to his bush will not lose his reward. It is as dangerous for a man as it is for a boy to spend too much time on his head.

While there has been much trouble in some of the States, between the whites and the blacks, it is refreshing to note the relations between the two races in North Carolina. Barring the late Wilmington trouble there is nothing to indicate, on the part of the whites, generally, any special racial prejudice. We have bad and dangerous men in North Carolina, white and black; so do we have good men of each race, for which blessing let us be thankful. And some of the good negroes live in the quiet, law-abiding little town of Jonesboro. To be personal, there is one negro resident, a preacher of the A. M. E Zion church, Rev. W. B. Gordon, whose manner of life is a benediction to any community. Sensible, judicious, unobtrusive, honorable, he goes on, quietly, attending to his own and his master's business and all the people say, "Gordon is a good man." I am not an expert in writing obituary notices, and if called on to do so, will endeavor to fix them up without wings, for the average obituary is ridiculous in the extreme, but, it does me good to occasionally say a word approbative of the conduct of live men. Hence the above as to Gordon. If all men were like him in character there would be no race problem. It would dissolve as mist.

The regenerated, adopted, sanctified, baptized, fire-baptized, white-fire ecclesia-baptized preachers have come to town, set up their tent and gone to work to save the people. And if the Jonesboro folks prefer there will not be a necktie devil, a whiskers devil, a mustache devil, a tobacco or cigar devil in the old town next Saturday night. But for religious liberty this crowd should be in the hands of the law. We are down on nothing that is good, and we believe in sanctification, a term for holiness of life, whether we have reached it or not, but with all our might, we say, down with fanaticism and religious bigotry wherever it be found. Christians have liberty given them by the Savior, and no sect has a right to collar a man. But liberty is not license to make a fool of yourself, unless you are a born fool.

I note a paragraph going the rounds of the press to the effect that Senator Butler will support the proposed constitutional amendment. Well, does that insure its constitutionality? Last summer we wrote that our Senator Butler would come back to the democratic party. Is he beginning to come? Two years from now his successor will qualify. Will he be the sucessor? Stranger things than this have taken place. He is a Butler who understands thoroughly his business, and he can well afford to put off entering the active practice of the law until he has served another term in the senate. Will Senator Butler succeed himself! That is the question. It would not be a surprise to many people in North Carolina if the question should be, practically answered, in the affirmative. No one has ever doubted Senator Butler's shrewdness, cleverness, wit. Trojan.

If you suffer from tenderness or fullness on the right side, pains under shoulder-blade, constipation, biliousness, sick-headache, and feel dull, heavy and sleepy, your liver is torpid and congested. I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester Enterprise recently, which leads me to write this. I can truthfully say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than one or two doses to cure the worst case with myself or children. —W. A. MURDERED BY A LOWERY.

Nephew of Henry Berry Lowery Kills Tucker Dial.

Lumberton, N. C., May 6—Ed Lowery, a nephew of Henry Berry Lowery, the famous outlaw of Eastern Carolina, shot and killed Tucker Dial at Scuffletown yesterday.

The shooting was the result of a law suit over some land. It appears that Lowrey yesterday went to the place where Dial was at work and ordered him to leave the premises. This Dial, though offering no resistance, refused to do. Thereupon Lowrey pulled his gun, emptying a load into his chest that killed the man instantly.

Lowery then effected his escape and as yet nothing further has been heard of him. He is a desperate character and may attempt defiance of the authorities. He is accused of killing a man in Clinch county, Ga., some years ago and now seems in a fair way to emulate some of the darkest deeds of his outlaw uncle.

Insurance Agents—"Well, officer, have the police succeeded in locating the incendiary?" Officer McManus—"They have not, sorr. All we've done so fur was to arrest the spalpeen who started the fire."

A THIN DISGUISE.

The cuttle fish has a tricky habit of covering his tracks by exuding an inky fluid which discolors the water and keeps him out of view. There's a good deal of the cuttle fish about some advertisements, notably those purporting to offer medical advice by a woman to women. An examination of the advertisement will show that no offer of a doctor's advice is really made. And all the clamor about "writing to a woman" is merely raised to divert attention from the fact that a doctor's advice is not really offered and cannot be given. The real question is not of writing to a woman or a man but of writing to a doctor,

For the advice of an unqualified woman is just as dangerous as the advice of an unqualified man.

Every day adds to the number of women who take advantage of Dr. Pierce's genuine offer of a consultation by letter free of cost. As chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce has, in a practice of over thirty years, treated more than half-a-million women for female troubles with the remarkable record of ninety-eight per cent. of cures. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, without fear and without fee. Every letter is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers are mailed sealed in plain envelopes without printing of any kind upon them.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes Weak Women Strong and Sick Women Well.

WASHINGTON CITY VETERANS.

Big Crowd of Them Gone to the Charleston Reunion.

Special to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, May 9—Four pullman sleepers, of the Atlantic Coast Line, pulled out of the Pennsylvania Station Monday afternoon at 3:46. The cars were filled with old soldiers who wore the gray during the long struggle between the States, many of them being accompanied by their wives and daughters. At the depot there were many members of the local camp present, who did not accompany the delegation to Charleston, but who were there for the purpose of giving their comrades a rousing send off. Those who left with the party are anticipating a pleasant time at the reunion where old associations will be renewed. Many of those in the party are now aged men, and will probably visit the Charleston reunion for the last time. All of the ex-confederates in the delegation are men away beyond the prime of life.

President McKinley left Washington Monday night for Hot Springs, Virginia, where he will remain about two weeks. The President is accompanied by Mrs. McKinley, and by one of his private secretaries. The trip is taken for recreation, and to enable the President to obtain some rest. Later in the season, about July, he anticipates a visit to the Pacific Slope.

Owing to the storm which came up yesterday noon, many who intended to attend the sale of lots in the Vanbokelin tract did not go and the attendance was therefore much smaller than it otherwise would have been. The sale however was held just as advertised and all things considered was quite as successful as could be expected. The prices were not high nor were high prices expected. There are many desireable lots left and any one wishing a lot or two can make his selection and purchase as well at private sale as at public auction.

The Meeting at Centenary.

Owing to the inclement weather the congregation at Centenary church last evening was small and instead of preaching Mr. Wagg conducted a prayer service. Much interest was manifested and when called upon nearly the entire congregation gathered around the altar and a number of earnest, fervent prayers were offered. The 4 o'clock prayer meeting was well attended yesterday afternoon and the pastor was assured of the hearty and faithful co-operation of those present. The meeting bids fair to be a most successful one and will result in much good to the community. Mr. Wagg is an earnest and devout preacher and all who possibly can should attend the series of revival meetings. During the meeting the evening service will open at 7:45 with songs and prayer and preaching will begin at 8 o'clock; afternoon prayer service at 4 o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to attend every meeting.

Great Improvements.

Jay Boone and Clarence Bogart, the popular and progressive managers of the Pressing Club, have just had their office and work rooms handsomely remodled The interior has been nicely painted, nice matting put on the floor, a private office curtained off and a handsome roller top desk added to the office furniture.
